Anglo-U.S. Deadlock
Brings Break.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Free Service.]
GENEVA, Switzerland, Aug. 3.—The three naval limitation conference, called by President Coolidge, will break its last at the plenary session planned for tomorrow. It was announced in authoritative American circles tonight. The conference already has collapsed in fact, it was said. The Japanese said the session tomorrow would wind up the parley.

The announcement came after a previous meeting of the chief delegates of the United States, Great Britain, and Japan at the secluded villa on the shores of Lake Geneva, of Hugh Wilson, American minister to Switzerland. The "big six" at the secret session were Ambassador Hugh Gibson, chief American delegate, Rear Admiral Harry Jones, W. C. Bridgeman, first lord of the British admiralty; Vice Admiral Robert Cecil, Viscount Salter, and Vincent Isbister. The meeting began at 10 a.m. and ended at midnight.

Gibson's Statement.

Returning to the Hotel Bergues with Alan Curtis, legal adviser to the American delegation, after the decisive parley, Mr. Gibson said:

"The public plenary session will convene at 3 tomorrow."

The chief of the American delegation said, however, to state whether the session would be the last—the meeting—as expected.

Admiral Jones said simply this:

"We are going to have the long expected meeting tomorrow afternoon."

The only word from Mr. Bridgeman was a single curt sentence to the effect that the "agends of tomorrow's plenary session has been agreed upon."

Prepares for the End.

But that tomorrow's session definitely will end the conference was further indicated by the fact that Saburo Japanese press liaison officer, after consulting his chiefs immediately following the "big six" parley, hunted up the names and addresses of all the American correspondents in order to give them a farewell dinner at once.

Big crowds waited in the lobbies of the Bergues hotel, the American delegation's headquarters, and the Beau Rivage, where the admiralty's forces are entrenched, to hear the outcome of tonight's private conference.

Decide to Admire Parley.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Aug. 3.—(P.)—The decision to adjourn the naval conference tomorrow was brought about by the inability of both Great Britain and the United States to accept the Japanese compromise proposal to a basis of discussion for settling the crucial question, which was the heart of the whole conference.

When the private meeting of delegations opened at Hugh R. Wilson's villa, the Japanese proposal was immediately brought up for discussion. W. C. Bridgeman, principal British representative, and his colleague, Vice Admiral Cecil, all accounts of them, were not quite clear as to whether the Japanese compromise could be acceptable to them.

This compromise virtually meant a naval holiday for Great Britain until the United States could catch up with its naval construction. The British admiral, however, indicated that if the compromise were acceptable to the United States and Japan, there would be required to look it further.

Gibson Queried Bridgeman.

The Japanese plan—"authorised"—was employed to emphasize that Great Britain and Japan only finish their authorised program. Mr. Gibson asked Mr. Bridgeman what he understood by "authorised," adding: "Does it mean approved and authorised?"

Cecil answered that it "authorised." After further quizzing, Mr. Gibson asked:

"Is it mean the Birkenhead might set it, it would be an administration fully accepted by the people and by Congress.

What he thought, no one knows, but no mood moved him, no sudden decision. His decisions are slow and final.

Coming out of their first stated attitude, Coolidge Republicans in the west think the situation may still lead to a third term, but the chances will be greatly enhanced by this move. The McNary-Hansen farm relief men are delighted and are saying with Senator Brookhart of Iowa that the President found out the real situation in the west and did not dare to run.

3d Term Standing Block.

There is little evidence that his farm relief attitude would have been a serious stumbling block in the way to nomination or election. It seems more likely that it was the third term talk that proved the real stumbling block, although this sentiment was hard to assay.

The Lowden men are now getting busy in the northwest. Work for Coolidge's nomination is to start. His favorite son candidates will probably hop up in many states, with the following wide open:

Lowden and Hoover now are soon to be in a contest in several states, it is anticipated by politicians and experts, with Senator Norris cutting a figure in the states where the Republicans are active within the Republican party.

Mrs. Coolidge Urged Move.

From the standpoint of the President's staff he can now go ahead and make plans for the rest of his vacation without being subject to political interruption. He can put on his cowboy hat and ride his horse in peace.

The President was very cheerful today as he appeared in his office. Mrs. Coolidge is said to have approved of his step and to have been the one to urge it.

A matter of historical interest, perhaps, is that the President wrote out his ten word statement, sitting at his desk only 20 minutes before he came into the room of the Senate committee. Then he instructed his stenographer to copy it on narrow slips of paper 15 times.

The President is to go to Deadwood tomorrow to view the "Days of '76" pageant, and to be adopted into the Order of St. Francis in a ceremony conducted by Chiefs Yellow-Robe and Standing-Bear, assisted by Rosebud-Robe, who is called the most beautiful Indian maiden in the world.

NEW ENGLAND IS SURE COOLIDGE'S MOVE IS SINCERE

Boston, Mass., Aug. 3.—[Special.]

The feeling here in New England with regard to President Coolidge's statement that he did not choose to run for President in 1928 is that Mr. Coolidge undoubtedly means he will actually not be a candidate and will make no comment on his action. His intentions and policies as President henceforth will not be subject to any suspicion that they are taken with a view to his chances before the convention next year.

It is believed here that the convention should fail to agree on any of the issues mentioned, and before it, and if the delegates there should demand Coolidge as the only possible compromise, he would not refuse under such circumstances.

As representing the views of Vermont, the President's native state, the Rutland Herald says editorially: "The people of Vermont learn with deep interest the determination of President Calvin Coolidge not to be a candidate for reelection. Knowing the man and the care with which he considers his public utterances, the brief announcement must be taken as final."

"The Herald does not believe that politics had much to do with the decision. It may be that the undoubted tradition against a third term had something to do with it; for itself the Herald accepts the decision as wise and just but voices what will undoubtedly be a very general disappointment that he has passed the door too soon. It cherishes the hope that Coolidge will accept the nomination if forced upon him by popular demand, but agrees that he will not make a campaign or otherwise permit himself to be a candidate prior to the convention."

Rathje Home in Evanston Broken Into by Thieves

Evanston police yesterday discovered that the home of W. G. Rathje, president of the Ravenswood National bank, at 927 Hinman avenue, Evanston, has been broken into. A neighbor recalled that he had seen two men carrying a sack leaving the home last Sunday. Mr. Rathje and his family are away on a vacation. The amount of loot taken could not be estimated until their return.

ANYBODY'S RACE, IS WASHINGTON VERDICT ON 1928

Many Predict Coolidge's Nomination in the End.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Regardless of the interpretation which may be placed upon Pres.

ident Coolidge's statement that he does not "choose" to be a candidate, political observers seem to agree that the outcome of the convention contest will remain in doubt almost until the final roll call.

There is a conviction that President Coolidge will finally decline to permit the use of his name on state primary ballots. This would be in keeping with his expressed disinclination to be a candidate. It would not necessarily make it impossible for the convention spontaneously to draft him as its nominee.

How It May Come About.

With a situation of this sort, the renomination of the President can be brought about by the action of uninstructed delegates and of delegates whose original choice proved to have no chance.

Davies in "Dark Horse Class."

Mr. Lowden seems certain to have a large group of delegates from western states. Mr. Hoover may have a considerable number from the east and the far west. Mr. Davies is likely to loom up prominently in the "dark horse" class as the second choice of many of the Lowden delegates.

Herbert Hoover, Charles E. Davies, and George H. Hinsdale are the top favorites here for the next United States President. Frank Lowden is given secondary place and Nicholas Longworth is next.

A member of the national Republican committee, now in Europe, told THE TRIBUNE the President is tired of the job and the press has been bad to him. He wants to resign his wife and his friends to refuse another term. He said Mrs. Coolidge is much worried by many threatening letters which have been received, and wants to abandon the isolation of the position of first lady of the land and return to private life. He also said President Coolidge has had offers from law firms of a partnership which would produce much larger income than his salary as Justice of the Supreme court, but without his sanction.

Favorite Sons in Field.

A long list of active candidates, most of them "favorite sons," was in the field, among them being Lawrence Y. Sherman, Philander C. Knox, Theodore Roosevelt, and John W. Weeks. The Democrats fold after the convention of 1916, which resulted in the nomination of Charles E. Hughes. At that time, the party had an active movement on behalf of Mr. Hughes, then a justice of the Supreme court, but without his sanction.

It is "unthinkable that a President of the United States would resort to word trickery to delude the public," Representative William A. Oldfield [Dem., Ark.], chairman of the Democratic congressional committee, declared.

I regret that the President did not make his renomination more explicit," Mr. Oldfield said. "Being couched in rather ambiguous language, my first impression was, like that of many others, that when he said he did not 'choose' to be a candidate again he was putting out what might be called a 'feeler.' But I do not wish to do him an injustice and I prefer to assume his statement in the spirit I feel sure he intended it, that is to mean that he will not be a candidate.

The 1928 convention also may resemble that of 1916, at which time Warren G. Harding won the final choice, although Frank O. Lowden, Leonard Wood and Senator Hiram Johnson each had more pledged delegates at the start.

Besides Mr. Lowden, Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, Vice President Dawes, Speaker Longworth, whose names have figured prominently in the discussion of possible candidates.

BETTING SPEEDS UP ON OUTCOME OF PRESIDENTIAL RACE

New York, Aug. 3.—[U. P.]—Betting on the outcome of the Presidential race commenced actively today. One commission house announced that it still had $10,000 offered to wager in odds of 5 to 1 that President Coolidge will succeed himself as President in 1928. The following wagers were $5,000 against $15,000 that Gov. Smith will be nominated on the Democratic ticket.

$2,000 against $4,000 that the next President will be a Democrat.

$1,000 against $15,000 that Gov. Smith will be the next President.

$1,000 against $2,500 that the nominee on the Democratic ticket will be Alfred E. Smith, on the Republican ticket President Coolidge.

dates, there is an expectation that a half dozen others will come to the convention as "favorite sons."

In most cases their candidacies will be chiefly for the purpose of holding their respective state delegations together and putting them in a position to support the ticket when it develops.

The Westminster Gazette says there is a possibility that the southern delegates may prove a decisive factor in the choice of a nominee.

As in the past, many of the southern states are likely to send uninstructed delegations and of delegates whose original choice proved to have no chance.

Speculation upon possible candidates ran rife, but statements from the diplomatic sources here could not be made. The American naval technicians said: "We are registered in the District of Columbia and therefore have no vote, so why talk?"

In foreign circles the President's declaration was generally taken as meaning that he was not an active candidate, but that if an overwhelming popular demand were made he might be induced to do it.

COOLIDGE'S "NO" LEAVES ILLINOIS O. P. UP IN AIR

Campaign Deals for '28
Reported Off.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Calvin Coolidge's "choose" found little Republican leaders of one mind yesterday on one subject. That it gives the party in Illinois something in the air. Game are the prospects of a friendly primary in Cook county and a most certain of winning because Calvin Coolidge would be at the head of it.

Locally, those who make politics believe the withdrawal of Coolidge from next year's race will be of benefit, first, to Frank L. Smith, semi-retired and to the organization of Mayor William H. Thompson and State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe. But the choice of the 58 delegates from Illinois for the Republican presidential nomination? The answer just wasn't ready.

By Next June's Convention.

The talk turned to the state's obligation to the June's national convention. It was of uninstructed delegates. Lowden will have some instructed state delegates, the Chicagoans were sure. Vice President Charles G. Dawes may be some delegate, even though he does not declare himself an active candidate.

"We will enter the preferential primary," Chicago ward committee men were speculating. It was regarded as certain that Mayor Thompson will not. The best guess was that none of the candidates would enter the Illinois primary—and that Thompson could not be a candidate but deserved a vote at most, if not a kindy consideration of his "America First" platform.

See Uninstructed Delegates.

The situation is expected by Chicago Republicans to be the same all over the country that a great portion of the delegates will be uninstructed. Under such a condition states like Illinois, New York, Pennsylvania, and others with many votes in the convention will wield a great power.

Some of the politicians were reluctant to features that Coolidge will do nothing regarding the Illinois presidential possibilities; that Thompson should be a possibility—would be confronted with his anti-war record as mayor; that enemies of Dawes would bring up as they did in 1924 his banking relation with the failed Lorimer banks years ago; that Lowden would be faced with the 1920 nomination incident when he hit the Missouri delegation in one of the Missouri delegates engaged in the selection of his ticket.

Pledged to Follow Orders.

What the followers of Thompson and Prosecutor Crowe will do about the general political lineup had not been decided yesterday. The leaders themselves were out of the city, others were sure their program would all for the election of 20 uninstructed delegates from Chicago, pledged only to follow the lead of Thompson, Crowe, Gandy and Barrett. These spokesmen were not ignoring the opposition that may come from United States Senator Charles S. Deneen either, but reckoning with it.

They agreed that had President Coolidge remained as a candidate the convention would have been delayed in the selection and in that event Senator Deneen would have been the chairman of the Illinois delegation.

That a sort of agreement to this effect was admitted.

State Officers Lined Up.

For state offices, Brundage would undoubtedly join with the others in support of the semi-small candidate for governor if Thompson or Crowe decided against him.

Under that arrangement Thompson and Crowe could practically name the governor. Deneen would be satisfied with his national prestige.

"But that deal is off," all factions asserted yesterday with wide smiles. Some put it bluntly, that all would fight for the governor. It's every man for himself now—precinct committeemen as well as ward bosses. The fight for delegates and for the precinct jobs may affect the selection of a presidential candidate, but with Coolidge out, of course there is no one to do the running there is no one to do the "national ticket." And so there's a big scrap coming and the winners will shake the palm tree."

LOWDEN SPEEDS BACK TO ILLINOIS; SILENT ON COOLIDGE NOTE

Alexander Bay, N. Y., Aug. 3.—[Special]—Former Gov. Frank O. Lowden who, with his family, arrived at the Great Lakes yesterday, tonight started back to Illinois. He had hurried out this afternoon from the Thousand Islands Country club golf links, where he was practicing, to rush by motor boat back to Castle Rest, gather his luggage and speed by motor boat to Alexandria Bay. There he was taken by automobile to Utica where he boards a train to Chicago. Before leaving the eighteenth hole, the former governor was asked if he would make a statement regarding President Coolidge's announcement, but he ventured no further than to announce that he was coming today for a visit to the Welfare Island.

Mr. Lowden would not disclose the nature of his business in Chicago. It is known that he received many telegrams and a long distance telephone call from Chicago.

Gov. Small, Thompson could still dictate terms as to Illinois' 58 delegates and probably have a powerful influence in naming the nominees, his associate said.

These suppositions are on the basis that Thompson can elect the 20 Chicago delegates. The opinion of his tacticians is that he can.

The proposal, tentatively accepted by all, that had included cut and dried primary next spring, was this, according to local politicians. Gov. Deneen was to be allowed to have the delegates who would vote for Coolidge. His friends, Recorder Haas and Reviewer Litzinger, were to have no primary opposition. Circuit Clerk Thomas O. Wallace and Superior Clerk Samuel Erickson, members of the Brundage organization, were held to be without opposition from the Thompson-Crowe followers. State's Attorney Crowe would fare equally as well, being renominated by a united party but reckoning with it.

They agreed that had President Coolidge remained as a candidate the convention would have been delayed in the selection and in that event Senator Deneen would have been the chairman of the Illinois delegation.

That a sort of agreement to this effect was admitted.

TRUCKS RUN OVER 2 SMALL GIRLS; BOTH MAY DIE

Two small girls were run down and both probably fatally injured yesterday by trucks, one driver of which was caught only after he had been chased for a mile by a dozen or more automobile drivers.

Eliese Colman, 5 years old, 7758 South Prairie street, was struck by a truck in the middle of the front of her home, and when the truck driver failed to stop, several drivers took up the chase, overtaking Thomas Fordote of 3900 West 11th street a mile away. Fordote was turned over to Greenlaw police, but he professed to have no knowledge of the accident.

The girl, 5, is in Auburn Park hospital where little hope is held for her recovery.

Maxine Schulz, 6 years old, was critically injured in front of her home at 165 Whiting street, when an ice truck driven by Frank C. Johnson, 1808 North La Salle street, ran over her.

The girl, 6, was taken to Hennepin hospital.

George Balk, 25, of 7143 South Sanguon street, died yesterday in a collision at West 70th and South Sanguon street. This death raised Cook county's motor toll for 1927 to 547.

Because the only witness who had seen the robbery with a gun was dead, the state police presented counts with mention of a revolver in them. The verdict of the jury, robbery, carries a sentence of three to twenty years.

The robbery was in broad daylight shrewd in its conception and complete in its execution. Three men stood in Chicago all one afternoon to "pull" the trick, and made no evident attempt to conceal themselves.

They posed as newly appointed bank examiners with credentials. The robbery was not discovered until two hours after they left.

One man, Harry Funk, is now serving time in Joliet for the robbery. Another, Wm. F. Evans, attempted when he was released to break a way out of Joliet prison for Punk, is in the McLean county jail awaiting trial for the same robbery.

Montpelier, Vt., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Gov. John M. Weeks, in a statement to night, said:

"By his recent utterance, Calvin Coolidge makes it definitely known that he does not seek another term."

The governor further says that he will refuse a nomination. He clearly and positively leaves the matter open for a free expression of the will of the people."

Jewelry Worth $20,000 Is Found on Suspect

Jewelry worth more than $20,000 found in the possession of Verl McMurray of St. Louis, said to have a police record there, who was arrested in Chicago Heights yesterday.

Police began a check up to find if any of the jewelry had been stolen.

The collection included a platinum bracelet set with diamonds and sapphires; a bracelet set with 18 diamonds; a 2 1/2 carat diamond ring, and a wrist watch set with 55 diamonds and four sapphires.

In addition, the girl happened to call at the office of Frank C. Johnson, 440 North Waller street, son of Mrs. Carpenter. He recognized them and sent them to his mother's home while he called the police.

COOLIDGE SLUMP IN STOCK MARKET TURNED TO RALLY

Scramble to Sell Ends in Volume of Buying.

New York, Aug. 3.—[Special]—Wall street's "Coolidge bull market" was jarred to its foundations this morning by the President's cryptic announcement that he does not choose to be a candidate for re-election in 1928.

There was a pel-mel scramble to sell stocks, and prices dropped from 2 to 15 points lower than the previous day's close. Then banking institutions, individual operators, pool managers and bargain hunters rushed to the market's rescue with such a volume of buying orders that the decline of stocks was turned to a rally within a brief thirty minutes.

The sudden introduction of an awkward and unsettling political situation into a bull market, built on generally good earnings, easy money conditions, and the probability of an upswing in operations in basic industries this fall, was the element which suddenly prompted many stockholders to "sell at the market."

Anxiety in Morning Hours.

Selling orders began to come into brokerage offices yesterday before the tickers had finished tapping off the 3:15 p.m. Then, before 9 o'clock this morning, telephone bell in brokers' offices was jangling, rattling the impatient calls of customers who were afraid of the uncertainty created and who wanted to save profits which might be snatched away from them by a smashing market.

The books of the specialists in leading stocks were filled full of selling orders before the opening and most of the big houses refused to accept selling orders at $20 o'clock with assurance that the opening sale could be "caught."

In stock exchange houses nervous customers gazed intently at the tickers as the record of the market's important quotations were picked off. The leading stocks began to come out on the tape—this one 3 points off, another 5 points down, and so on until a generally lower price level had been established.

On the floor of the exchange brokers scrambled and pushed to execute their book of orders and to catch first bids.

Lumped in Large Blocks.

It was evident that there would be no "spread opening"—that is, a block of shares of one stock at one price.

another block at another price. Although no official orders were given, it was apparent that the orders were lumped, and that buyers and sellers fared alike in the opening quotations. Naturally buyers fared better than sellers. Stop-loss orders, fixed price orders and orders "at the market" all went into the pot, and the first sales in leading stocks were lumped in blocks which ranged from $300 up to 10,000. The declines ranged from 15% to 20%.

The general opinion at the close was that the market had weathered the political shock and settled back to normal, all in one day.

SACCO, VANZETTI LOSE LAST PLEA FOR THEIR LIVES

Gov. Fuller Denies Clemency; They Must Die.

refused to sustain the contention of counsel for the men.

The governor discarded entirely the confession of Celestino Madelio, self-confessed murderer of a Wrentham bank cashier, now in the death house awaiting execution. Madelio had denied his guilt and the Morelli gang of Providence took part in the South Braintree holdup and murders and that Sacco and Vanzetti had nothing to do with the case.

The governor then pointed out that both Sacco and Vanzetti had been questioned, said they lied when questioned by the police, and that Sacco's alibi was demolished when he said he had been at work on the day of the murder.

Concludes They Were Guilty.

Later Sacco claimed to have been at the Italian consulate in Boston and this was confirmed only by a former employee of the consulate, who had no memorandum to assist his memory. The governor therefore concluded, from his study of the case and his interview with witnesses, that the men were guilty and had a fair trial.

"This crime was committed seven years ago," the governor continued. "For six years, through dilatory methods, one appeal after another, every possibility for delay has been utilized, all of which tends itself to attempt to frustrate the course of justice to influence changes in testimony, to multiply by the very years of time elapsed the possibilities of error and confusion."

"I have read the record and examined many witnesses and the jurymen to see from a layman's standpoint whether the trial was fairly conducted," the governor wrote. "I am convinced that it was."

No Reason for New Trial.

The next question is whether newly discovered evidence was of sufficient merit to warrant a new trial. After the verdict against the men, their counsel filed and argued before Judge Thayer seven distinct supplementary motions for a new trial, six of them on the ground of newly discovered evidence, all of which were denied.

"I have examined all of these motions and the affidavits in support of them to see whether they present any valid reason for granting the accused men a new trial. I am convinced that they do not and am further convinced that the presiding judge gave no evidence of bias in denying them all and refusing a new trial."

SACCO COMMITTEE CALLS GOVERNOR'S DECISION BRUTAL

Boston, Mass., Aug. 3.—(UPI)—The Sacco-Vanzetti defense committee late tonight issued the following statement on Gov. Fuller's decision:

"The decision of the governor was arrived at such a late hour that a proper answer to it cannot be prepared before morning.

"The decision is unbelievably brutal in its harshness, and even more so in that the omission of facts does not fully bring out in the course of the case, like the framework of expert testimony as shown by the report of the defense attorney, that a proper answer to it cannot be given.

"Inasmuch as the committee and the governor cannot justify themselves, these facts must be disclosed in their entirety. It is a solemn truth that one cannot know the demonstrative facts of this case from the governor's statement.

"The days separating Sacco and Vanzetti from the electric chair are few, but this defense committee will continue to fight for justice until these facts are made known to the public.

"Our faith in their innocence is unshaken.

"We call upon the millions of people throughout the world who have supported them to come forward and join us in this last desperate effort to stay the hand of the judicial hangman."

peals on four of the motions and had the opportunity to read the same affidavits which were submitted to Judge Thayer, declined to sustain the motions of counsel for the accused.

Madelio Confession.

"In my own investigations on the question of guilt, I have given these motions and their supporting affidavits and the witness every consideration.

"I give my weight to the Madelio confession. It is popularly supposed he confessed to committing this crime. In his testimony to me he could not recall the details of describing the robbery.

"He furthermore stated that the government had double crossed him and he proposed to double cross the government. He feels that the district attorney's office has treated him unfairly because his two confederates who were associated with him in the commission of the murder for which he was convicted, were given life sentences, whereas he was sentenced to death.

"He confessed the crime for which he was convicted. I am not impressed with his claim to knowledge of the South Braintree murders.

Reviewed Previous Holdup.

"The next question, and the most vital question of all, is that of the guilt or innocence of the accused. In this connection I reviewed the Bridgewater attempted holdup for which Vanzetti had previously been held in prison, just and found guilty.

Sacco-Vanzetti Case Is Legal Drama 6 Years Long

BY THE UNITED PRESS.

Sacco and Vanzetti were convicted on July 14, 1922, of the murder of Frederick Parmenter, shoe company paymaster, and his guard, Alexander Berardelli, in a holdup in South Braintree, Mass., on April 15, 1920.

A trial, filled with sensational incidents, followed. During the trial Dedham courthouse was under heavy guard. The two men were convicted, and there followed a six-year legal battle to obtain a new trial.

Exceptions taken by defense counsel to rulings by Judge Webster Thayer, the trial judge, were at once made the basis of an appeal for a new trial which Judge Thayer denied.

Commuting Exonerated.

Subsequently motions for a new trial were based on disclosures of new evidence and the confession of Celestino Madelio, which, if credited, would have exonerated Sacco and Vanzetti of any complicity in the South Braintree murders. Madelio asserted that he and a Plymouth boy, identified as the friend of Sacco and Vanzetti, were in no way involved.

The Madelio confession was reaffirmed by Judge Thayer, before whom all appeals for a new trial were argued, on the ground that Madelio, already sentenced to die for another murder, was not to be held.

Meanwhile friends of the two men who believed they were convicted, not on the evidence, but because of their admitted radical views, organized the Sacco-Vanzetti defense committee. Several hundred thousand dollars were raised and world-wide appeals were made in the two men's behalf.

Many Demonstrations Abroad.

Sacco claimed to have been working at Kelly's shoe factory on April 15, the date of the South Braintree crime. Upon being asked if he was not at work on that day, he then claimed to have been at the Italian consulate in Boston on that date, but the only confirmation of this claim is the memory of a former employee of the consulate who made a deposition in Italy that Sacco, among forty others, was in the office that day. The memory had no memorandum to assist his memory.

He furthermore stated that the government had double crossed him and he proposed to double cross the government. He feels that the district attorney's office has treated him unfairly because his two confederates who were associated with him in the commission of the murder for which he was convicted, were given life sentences, whereas he was sentenced to death.

"The next question, and the most vital question of all, is that of the guilt or innocence of the accused. In this connection I reviewed the Bridgewater attempted holdup for which Vanzetti had previously been held in prison, just and found guilty.

"Investigating this case, I talked to the counsel for Vanzetti at the Plym-ond trial, the juryman, the trial witnesses, new witness, present counsel and Vanzetti. I have talked with the government witnesses who saw the Bridgewater holdup and who identified Vanzetti and I believe that their testimony to be substantially correct.

"I believe, with the jury, that Vanzetti was guilty and that his trial was fair. I found nothing unusual about this case, except, as noted above, that Vanzetti did not testify.

Many Identified Vanzetti.

In the Bridgewater case practically every one who witnessed the attempted holdup and who could have identified the bandits identified Vanzetti.

The South Braintree crime was particularly brutal. The murder of the paymaster (Parmenter) and the guard (Berardelli) was not necessary to the robbery. The robbers were accomplices, first, the robbery afterward.

The first shot at Berardelli, fired in the doorway, and after Parmenter was hit, he dropped the money box in the road and ran across the street. The money could then have been taken but the murderers pursued Parmenter across the road and shot him again, and then returned and fired three more shots into Berardelli, forcing him to leave his lifeless form on the roadway.

"Vanzetti when arrested on May 15, had in his pocket a fully loaded revolver. Sacco had a loaded pistol tucked into the front of his trouser and 20 loose cartridges which fitted his pistol.

"Upon being questioned by the police, both men told what they afterward admitted was a tissue of lies.

NO PRINCES AND PREMIER HONOR
CANADA'S HEROES

Alfred Refutes Charges of Britain's Decline.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 3.—Canada's mortal to its war dead was dedicated today with ceremonies in which parliament officialdom joined with the prince of Wales, Prince George, and the British prime minister, Stanley Baldwin.

The prince of Wales dedicated the year in the memorial chamber of the tall peace tower, the national monument to those killed in the world war, which is the central feature of the new parliament buildings. Later he unveiled the statue of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, erected on the west slope of parliament hill. Many witnessed the service on the altar, dedicated by the prince, will rest the book of remembrance, in which will be recorded the names of 60,000 Canadians who gave their lives in the world war.

Bear Names of Battles.

The walls and the vaulted ceiling of the memorial chamber are of stone from Franklin, Vermont, a white marble, bordered by black marble, the gift of Belgium, and bearing the names of battles in which Canadians fought.

At the four corners of the altar stood an able-bodied, a privy soldier, an armistice, and a gun. A Wales pronounced the last post, the flag on the peace tower was dipped, the guard of honor presented arms, and as the bugle note of the bugle sounded the "silence of remembrance" was observed. The crowds stood with heads bowed.

Baldwin Talks on Disarming.

Mr. Baldwin, a Canadian club member, spoke of British's war problems and the need for disarmament, although it would mean an economic pinch for the ship building districts.

"We are trying," he said, "as all nations are, to encourage disarmament among the peoples of the world. But it is natural, because as we are successful in disarmament, necessarily it is world peace and economic prosperity—we bring infinite suffering and distress to such districts in England as Sheffield and the Clyde."

He pointed out that in some places as still Britain is growing soft, "and we are not strong." "These statements," he said, "are a new column that do not require crediting."

Don't Believe in Growing."

"The British are a grimly practical people who do not believe a man can demonstrate his superiority by crowing. They believe that the place to stand is at the poultry congress."

"We are said to be industrially a sick number. When our workmen are on strike they are on strike and our employers are on the golf links. Comically, it is all up with Great Britain, who, more, please your orders elsewhere else, that's what they say. But it is gross calumny. We are still swimming and swimming strongly."

The Wales-Baldwin party went to the world poultry congress today. Also, on the occasion of his sixtieth birthday, Mr. Baldwin was given a fine trimmed cherry wood pipe by the Minister Mackenzie King of Canada.

54 RAILROADS IN EAST INCREASE ENGINEER WAGE

Both Sides Sign Agreement for New Scale.

New York, Aug. 3.—(AP)—An agreement providing a seven and a half percent wage increase for approximately 30,000 locomotive engineers on fifty-four eastern railroads was signed here today.

The agreement was reached after arbitration had failed and appeal was made to the United States board of arbitration.

The engineers asked for a 15 percent increase, estimated to amount to $13,000,000 annually, and the decision gives them half of what they asked.

The agreement involves twenty eastern railroads, including fifty-four separate roads. Roads which have not undertaken to act in concert in such matters are not affected.

The system affected by today's agreement are the Baltimore and Ohio;
Buffalo, Rochester and Ohio; Central Railroad of New Jersey; Chicago, New England and Louisville; Delaware
Lackawanna and Western; Erie; Hickory Valley; Indianapolis Union; Lehigh Valley; Long Island; Michigan
Central; New York Central; New York,

CHILD DIES OF RABIES 4 MONTHS
AFTER DOG BITE

Nearly four months after a boy dog had bitten him in the cheek, a 14-year-old boy died yesterday. Counter was dead last night. Hydrocephalus was the cause of death, according to Dr. Joseph E. Ursich, 3000 West 23d street, the attending physician.

The little boy was playing in front of his home April 11 when the dog bit him. His parents took him to Dr.

Ursich, who treated the wound. The physician did not think it necessary to employ the Pasteur treatment, he declared.

The wound healed and the boy appeared well until a few days ago, when he suddenly became ill. Dr. Ursich again was called to treat him.

After the death he diagnosed the case as one of rabies.

KILLS WIFE, MAN HE ACCUSED OF BREAKING HOME

Knoxville, Tenn., Aug. 3.—(AP)—O.
May, a loan broker, today killed his wife and the man he accused of breaking up his friendship.

May, at the county jail tonight, declared he had known for a long time that Carl R. Roberts, his second son and life long friend, was breaking up his home. Mrs. Bernice May, against whom he had filed divorce proceedings, yesterday fled her answer and a cross bill, in which she sought to attack May's property.

Mrs. May went to the home of her husband's uncle, George W. May, today after returning recently from Texas. May went to the house and shot his wife to death. He then drove rapidly to the business section and located Roberts in a barber shop.

Entering the shop, he began firing at Roberts, who was in a chair. Eleven shots were fired, nine of which took effect.

LOWERS ELDERLY MAN'S ALIMONY FOR YOUNG WIFE

A story of worry yesterday moved Judge John B. Davis in Superior court to relieve Harry Overman, 49, insurance broker, of the firm of Charles A. White & Co., of part of the added burden of paying alimony to his 35 year old wife. Overman was up for contempt of court for being $1,000 in arrears on his monthly alimony payments to his estranged wife, Mrs. Lenora J. Overman, 46, North 5th avenue, Maywood.

"It looks like a case of December and May," the judge said. "It also looks like a gold digging case."

The young wife accepted $100 on the $1,000 due and the case was continued until Sept. 22.

PROSPECTS OF THE CAMPAIGN.

Mr. Coolidge uses words with care and skill. He has a good list of sententious utterances to his credit and he has now added another which is likely to be famous in American political history. It certainly does not lack flavor, and we are inclined to think that it is Vermont it may have none of the ambiguity which it seems to have elsewhere. But whether Mr. Coolidge intends to convey to his fellow countrymen that he will in no possible circumstances accept the Republican nomination next year or merely that he will not descend into the arena to contest for the nomination, the immediate effect of his announcement will be to throw the race open to other candidates. The friends of the Vice President, of Mr. Lowden, Mr. Hoover, Mr. Longworth, Dr. Butler, and others will accelerate their efforts and a campaign of more variety seems now in prospect.

There is little doubt that Mr. Coolidge can have the nomination and little more doubt that he can win the election, if he chooses to accept renomination. But we are equally confident that any one of the leading Republicans above named can win. Our confidence is based on the fact that the Democratic party is fatally divided on an issue which it can neither expel nor resolve. It is the religious issue, and we think it represents an irreconcilable conflict. It is not merely incident to the candidacy or political fortunes of Gov. Smith and it cannot be evaded by his elimination from the campaign, because his elimination, whether voluntary or involuntary, would be deeply resented by Catholic Democrats, while his nomination would be as offensive to a large body of Democratic and Protestant persuasion.

That the more intelligent members of the party deplore the appearance of a religious or sectarian test does not alter the unpleasant truth that it is present and cannot be laid. Intolerance is a disgusting but undeniable phenomenon of this time and cannot be removed by the waving of a wand. If Gov. Smith were nominated the Democratic ticket would certainly lose so many of the crucial states of the midwest and west that defeat may be considered foreordained. On the other hand, if Gov. Smith is beaten in the convention or compelled to withdraw, in spite of his just and formidable claims to leadership, we are pretty confident that it would turn so many normally Democratic votes in the great states of the east from the candidate who succeeds to his place that Democratic defeat would be assured. Democrats of Catholic persuasion are not taking the issue lightly. They are not willing to accept as a precedent that a Democrat who is a Catholic may not aspire to the presidency. Yet this is an unescapable inference from either the nomination of Gov. Smith for the nomination or his withdrawal from the contest on behalf of party harmony.

In this situation the prospects of Democratic success under the conditions of the coming campaign are very slim and the Republican nomination appears to be equal to election.

CALLES AS A STATESMAN.

An observer of the proceedings of the fifth congress of the Pan-American Federation of Labor, lately held in Washington, remarks that it disclosed the extent to which the organization is being used by the Calles government as a vehicle for the fomentation of hostility to the United States in Latin America.

This is an effect which would not have pleased Samuel Gompers, a loyal American. Mr. Gompers gave much encouragement and good advice to the Mexican labor organization which is the chief support of Señor Calles and it was his hope and intent that a rapprochement between organized labor in the United States and in Mexico would not only bring about better relations between the neighbors but would put the feet of Mexican labor on firm ground. But it seems to have turned out that Calles faces the other way and is using what labor organization exists in Latin America as an instrument to develop a policy of hatred for the United States.

Mr. Green and his associates of the American federation might do some thinking over that, for systematic hostility to their country is not going to benefit American labor. So far as it produces, as it is intended to produce, propaganda against American investment and American goods, it will be an injury to American enterprise and a loss to American labor.

Meanwhile, one may estimate the statesmanship of Señor Calles and his supporters in the light of a policy which turns its back upon the United States, Mexico's richest market, and seeks assistance from Latin America, which is not a market but a competitor. Latin America needs capital and the aid of foreign enterprise. So does Mexico. Both have resources to develop and need markets for their raw products. The United States offers them what they need and they cannot get it from one another. If Calles were a statesman, possessed of a sound conception of his country's needs, he would cultivate friendly relations with the United States as the foundation of the material strength and progress of the Mexican people. Instead he engages in an elaborate conspiracy to injure us without the slightest chance of receiving for Mexico any compensation.

There is little hope for stability and progress for the Mexican people while its politicians show so little judgment. The United States cannot be seriously hurt by Señor Calles' plotting, but it is indication of a state of mind which will have to be altered before Mexican affairs can be much improved. American labor's effort to import some common sense into Mexican politics seems to have failed.

THE ELEVENTH HOUR AT GENEVA.

There is a feeling that the best America could expect from the Geneva naval conference would be its dissolution. Inasmuch as the conference is of American suggestion, this expectation is, in a large way, ridiculous, but that cannot be helped. It would be worse than ridiculous for the United States to come out of the negotiations weaker by agreement than when it went in.

Secretary Kellogg of the state department has maintained thus far an admirable tone so far as his position has been revealed in the attitude of the American representatives. If they are allowed to keep the question separated from all entanglements and influences not properly to be taken into consideration they may get the country through uncompromised and unbroken.

If improper influences get the upper hand there will be the unpleasant necessity of trying to beat the agreement of a conference held at the request of the United States. That would give another talking point against America and would be unfortunate, but again it would be the lesser of two evils.

The nations came together to find a way to get rid of competition in classes of ships not covered by the existing agreement. It was not the purpose to review British navy requirements and concede that they were paramount.

It will be possible to get rid of the irritations which may be caused by a dissolution more easily than it will be to wash out the anomalies inherent in an unfair agreement. When the conference was in prospect it seemed to concern naval questions of minor importance, a clean up of details passed over when the main agreement in Washington was made. In fact, it at once reached down to the raw of national life and it brought the United States and Great Britain to face with actualities of their past and the most portentous prospects of their future.

Nothing less than the whole adjustment of sea power between them was uncovered and the wisest of any generation would have preferred not to take responsibility for such determinations. In the Washington conference the British did not give up their superiority at sea. The American assumption that they did was of short life. They may agree to an illusion of words, but they have not agreed to an actuality.

Both American and Great Britain may back away from something too explosive to be handled. We believe that the best conclusion of the proceedings at Geneva would be an amicable agreement that no agreement could be reached.

WATSON AND STEPHENSON.

One of the Stephenson disclosures in Indiana was a telegram from the Klan head to Walter Bossert telling him to "get to Watson." United States senator, and have Watson and Ralston, then senator, see the President in the interest of E. A. Rumely. Rumely, publisher of the New York Mail during the war, had been convicted of making a false report of ownership of the newspaper, which was being used for German purposes.

Nothing in the disclosure can be construed to the detriment of Watson or of Ralston, who is dead, unless it is in the power of any manipulator to hurt a reputation by attempting to exert an influence. In that case any character is at the mercy of any rogue who cares to write letters.

Editorial of the Day

TEMPERANCE AND SOBRIETY.
(The Montreal Gazette.)

Speaking of beer, there is presented an interesting and perhaps instructive contrast between conditions in Ontario and those now being inaugurated in the adjoining province of Manitoba. The Ontario system, because of a prelection promise by Premier Premier, does not permit the sale of beer by the glass; the beverage can be procured by the bottle, or even by the keg, but the thirsty individual who might like to comfort himself with a small glass of beer, and let it go at that, is prohibited from doing so. He is at perfect liberty to buy two or three glasses, or their equivalent, or even a long procession of glasses; but a single glass of beer he must not have. It is an incongruity, but it is the law. It is the antithesis of temperance, but it is there a concession to prohibition sentiment. Some hint has been given of a possible correction of this anomaly, but the prospect is very vague unless it is influenced by the altered conditions in Manitoba. In the latter province the public has authorized the sale of beer by the glass, because they found that the other system led to intemperance, and the government is now studying the regulations under which beer is sold by the glass in other provinces. When this study has been completed, there will be a special session of the legislature; an act will be passed, and the sale of licensed premises will begin.

The Manitoba decision seems to be a sound one, if temperance is the objective. From somewhere down in the maritime provinces comes the curious contention that beer by the glass is bad because it means the return of the bar. This is a very interesting example of a so-called reform propaganda which places phrases and catchwords first and the realities of temperance last. If temperance can be promoted through the sale of beer by the glass, as against the sale of beer in larger quantities, the revival of the bar might be regarded as a secondary consideration. The sale by the glass does not bring back the bar, or, at any rate, it does not bring back the institution which the people, by their votes, "abolished," but whether the sale is made over a bar or at a table is not, or should not, be the first consideration. The aim, presumably, is sobriety, which is not a matter of furniture or furnishings.

SAVING LIVES WITH TURNIP GREENS.

R. CAREY P. McCORD of Cincinnati went to Birmingham, England, to turnip greens.

That is what he wrote about his discovery: "It [turnip green] has saved so many lives, promoted healthy growth of so many children, it would not be inappropriate to erect a monument or memorial as a recognition of the turnip greens' great merits and to commemorate their saving qualities."

Dr. McCord, who teaches industrial hygiene, has been studying the health of employees in certain great industries. The Associated Press writer added the following explanation of Dr. McCord's interest: "After a survey of food and feeding habits of the workers in these works, Dr. McCord decided that the tons of turnips, boiled up like spinach, had done more to promote health in the south than anything else." Having written this explanation, the correspondent went to the Associated Press wires and broadcast the information all over the world.

I hope one hundred million people will read and heed the story. I assure with all it says, except one statement.

Turnip greens cooked with some meat is a rich source of food supply, particularly if the juice is eaten. The mixture is reasonably high in fat and carbohydrates, and contains some protein. It is rich in natural minerals and in vitamins. It is a basic food. Turnip greens are generally added to the dish, and gives the acidity craved in hot weather and so necessary in that season to protect the eater against the summer time intestinal infections. Turnip greens are commonly eaten with bread, and are combined with soups, about all the needed food elements. There is no justification for eating turnips and throwing the tops away, since the tops are more wholesome than the roots and, properly cooked, taste better. Both tops and roots should be eaten.

FALL?

ROAD WIDENING MOVE EXTENDED BY KANE COUNTY

Citizens Plan Traffic Relief Improvements.

A group of leading citizens of Kane county took steps yesterday to join the movement toward extending the foot pavements on radial highways from Chicago into and beyond that county. The action undertaken is a device meant to meet the proposed widening of Roosevelt road and other major thoroughfares through DuPage country, with equally wide pavements at the Kane-DuPage county line.

Representatives of the organizations at Batavia, Geneva and Aurora met at Aurora and agreed to form a permanent organization to meet the proposed widening of Roosevelt road and other major thoroughfares through DuPage country, with equally wide pavements at the Kane-DuPage county line.

The idea was put forward by business men of the district in response to arguments advanced by the Chicago Motor club that the Randolph street improvement would furnish quick and at little expense to the city partial relief for the traffic congestion on Jackson and Washington boulevards.

"Fulton street is already a market center," said John E. Mitchell, past president of the Central Produce Market association. "Why not consolidate both markets and leave Randolph street as it is?"

Originally the thought of the traffic relief group was for the Randolph street firms to move to the new $17,000,000 market area at Madison and Morgan streets.

But dealers and farmers' and hardware wagon men were against the plan.

"Our trade here is chiefly retail," explained H. Allegretti, 934 West Randolph street. "We pay rents of $150 to $200 a month. The South Water rents are $600 and $700, which we couldn't stand. We would fight to the last ditch rather than be ousted."

Removal of Old Haymarket to Fulton Street Is Urged

STOPEC SLAYING SUSPECT HELD TO JURY; DENIED BAIL

CRIMINAL COURT:
William Bell, sentenced to serve from 1 to 24 years in the penitentiary for murder, by Chief Justice William J. Lindsay, was held to the grand jury without bail by Judge Stanley H. Klarowski in connection with the slaying of John Stopek, beer flat owner.

Similar views were expressed by Christ Lippman, 932 West Randolph, and I. Lipman, at the corner of Randolph and Morgan streets.

Mr. Lipman said that he planned to call a protest meeting and appeal to Mayor Thompson if the movement to force them to the South Water market develops further. Mr. Mitchell, whose partial relief for the traffic congestion on Jackson and Washington boulevards.

"Fulton street is already a market center," said John E. Mitchell, past president of the Central Produce Market association. "Why not consolidate both markets and leave Randolph street as it is?"

As an alternate to Mitchell's idea of bringing Haymarket row to Fulton street, several of the Haymarket men proposed moving the Fulton street market to Randolph street and boulevarding Fulton street.

Two distinct disadvantages were seen in this: First, Randolph street is already 150 feet wide from Des

Plaines street west, while Fulton street is only 60 feet; second, Fulton street traffic would have to jog south to Milwaukee street and go over the already crowded Wells street bridge to get to Wacker drive. Randolph street, on the other hand, passes through a bottle neck at its east end.

Heavy Traffic Volume.

Either street, however, could carry a heavy volume of traffic should the two markets be consolidated on one of them, thus clearing the other.

As the situation now exists, both streets are choked with hucksters' wagons and delivery trucks, making motorized traffic almost impossible.

Chicken crates, baskets of peaches, watermelons, bunches of oranges and bananas, fish buckets, and sundry other produce block the sidewalk and clutter

the cobblestone pavement.

Meanwhile, all passenger car traffic, avoiding the markets, clogs Jackson and Washington boulevards. Widenig these two streets, it is proposed by the Chicago plan commission, it is argued, would still fail to furnish enough room to Wacker drive and the north side of the loop from the west, whereas the need might be filled economically by reclaiming Randolph or Fulton street.

$33,000,000 WATER SYSTEM PLANS ADVANCE

33 of 100 Towns Give Program Support.

Plans to begin construction upon the huge lake crib and water mains forming part of the $33,000,000 outline of the Chicago Lake Water company, which proposes to furnish waters of 100 suburban communities with water, are proceeding normally, it was declared yesterday by officials of the company.

A permit was issued for the new concern by the Illinois Commerce commission last February. About 38 towns and cities of the 100 have given their support to the company so far signified a willingness to cooperate with the company's construction program, it was said.

40 Mile Radius.

The territory of the company is to extend over a 40 mile radius from Chicago, taking in such centers as Aurora, Elgin and others.

It is a very slow process to get things in shape to begin operations, the officials of the company said. "There is an immense coil of red tape to be unraveled before we can start operations. The council of each town has to act, and then endless conferences have to be held between contractors and engineers and lawyers and bankers.

"We may be ready to begin construction early next spring. It is impossible to tell yet."

One of the contemplated plans of the company for taking water from the lake calls for the building of a crib off 23rd street. A tunnel would then be drilled through rock 160 feet below street level to Harlem avenue, where a large filtration plant with a pumping station would be built.

Crib Planned.

Another plan calls for the building of a crib off Glencoe and the construction of a similar tunnel for two or three more miles to a distant plant and pumping station. When the stamp of approval of the commerce commission was given the project, Thomas D. Dolan, treasurer of the company, stated that the cost of water to consumers will perhaps range from 7 to 10 cents per 1,000 gallons.

stage in signing a treaty to authorize the British building program.

Curb on Britain, They Say.

All the British statesmen remarked that the acceptance of such a treaty will prevent Great Britain laying down more ships than contained in its building program.

Mr. Gibson told the meeting he thought the Japanese compromise contained interesting possibilities, but that it all depended on what was implied in it. He said if the British interpretation of the word "authorized" was not his own, then the Americans would be difficult to discuss the compromise.

The American delegates, Mr. Gibson said, were kindly disposed to the general idea voiced in the compromise, but if it did not result in any saving and did not mean a cessation of building, then the compromise possessed no interest for Americans. He added that Americans do not consider anything as authorized until it is approved by congress.

Gibson Closes Session.

Mr. Gibson again made it clear that the cruiser plan drawn up by the Birkenhead committee in 1925 was not acceptable. All present seemed to realize that the fateful moment of a break was upon them. Mr. Gibson turned to Mr. Bridgeman and said:

"Mr. Bridgeman, what do you say?"

Mr. Bridgeman replied that he had none, and Viscount Ishii, of the Japanese delegation, replied in the same manner, his voice scarcely more than a murmur.

As chairman, Mr. Gibson then announced that he could see no further useful purpose in continuing. All the other chief delegations agreed to it, and the discussion immediately began concerning the agenda of tomorrow's final session. It was finally arranged that each delegation should make a public statement and that a joint communiqué would be issued by the conference.

No Hope in U. S. Capital.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., Aug. 3.—Virtually all hope that last minute negotiations will result in a naval limitation treaty at Geneva has been abandoned by the Washington government and at the Geneva conference, which opened yesterday, scheduled for tomorrow.

PARTISAN OF MAYOR SAYS COATH LACKS ANTI-M'ANDREW VOTES TESTED FAVORITE LAST IS QUIZZED

Recent threats by President J. Louis Coath that he would "get Supt. McAndrew out in thirty days" yesterday were regarded as premature by one Thompson, member of the school board, who predicted that Supt. McAndrew would remain in office until his present term ends Jan. 1. "We can't dismiss the superintendent," that member said. "We haven't got the necessary number of votes, and we see no possibility of getting them in the near future."

This informant discounted promises of an ouster before Sept. 1, a premature and unfounded and expressed the opinion that the matter would be kept more quiet in the future, following the receipt of advice from "higher ups."

The decision to drop temporarily the problem of getting rid of Supt. McAndrew was made, it was not, by the informant, but by the members of Mr. McAndrew's friends who have raised money and retained counsel to defend him, but merely followed a checkup of the voting strength that revealed a majority still firm for the retention of the superintendent.

Trustees Otto E. Schmidt, James McAllister, George Haymer, and Mrs. W. S. Heffernan, all Beverly appointees, are believed to be still in favor of Supt. McAndrew. Promises are said to have been made by Trustees Charles J. Vopica and Theophilus Schmidt that they would continue to support Mr. McAndrew despite their votes for President Coath in the May election.

3 CHICAGOANS
PLAN 20 DAY
WORLD FLIGHT

To Start Oct. 1 with Local Plane.

Around the world in 20 days is the hope of three Chicago men who hope to start about Oct. 1, according to their announcement yesterday. They expect to fly east from Chicago in a plane designed here by a Chicagoan and to come back to Chicago from the west.

The pilots are John H. Sayre Skoning, 38, and Nimmo Black, 22. They plan to carry with them as a passenger Theodore Turnquist who is 51. None of them is married. The plane is known as a Lockheed with a Wasp motor, or they may use a Wright whirling motor, they said.

Route and Time Estimates.

Their itinerary as announced is:

Chicago to London, nonstop in 42 hours.

London to Moscow, nonstop in 20 hours.

Moscow to Tobolsk, Siberia, nonstop in 10 hours.

Tobolsk to Nizhnielovsk, on the Kamchatka peninsula, nonstop in 20 hours.

Nizhnielovsk to Seattle, nonstop in 48 to 52 hours.

Seattle to Chicago, nonstop in 18 hours.

The plane, designed by Roy Akers, who years ago had one of the first successes with gliders, will carry 750 gallons of gasoline. Turnquist stated.

Black was one of the first night flyers and was a Lieutenant in the air service during the war. Skoning also was a war flyer and is a graduate of the government school of aerial navigation.

Passenger Reality Man.

Turnquist is a real estate broker and is a member of the Commercial Aircraft association.

INSPECTOR WHO TESTED FAVORITE LAST IS QUIZZED

Capt. James P. Mackin, the government agent who inspected and O. K'd the launch Favorite just a few days before it sank last Thursday and drowned two hundred passengers, was witness at the coroner's inquest yesterday and admitted that he never made any stability tests of the Favorite.

Governor inspectors from Washington did that when the boat was launched, he said. He was asked if in his opinion the boat should have been tested repeatedly for stability after having seen it twice.

"Only when it is apparent from its looks that it needs it," he replied.

Years of Experience.

"What made you think it was all right?"

"My years of experience," was the answer.

"Have you any rules to go by?" a juror persisted.

"No," he said, producing a letter for the Department of commerce which showed that he was without the authority to promulgate rules regarding the equipment of vessels of the Favorite type. For that reason, he averred, he did not suggest to the Favorite's owner that it carried inadequate equipment when he made the last inspection on July 11.

The informant was asked if six life boats were required to have life boats capable of handling only 10 per cent of the passengers. He replied that such was the equipment of craft operating within the three mile limit.

"Then the other 90 per cent must sink or swim, relying upon preservers?" a juror asked.

"Yes," the reply.

Further blame for the disaster was placed upon the alleged top-heavy upper deck and awning of the Favorite by Fred Weimer, 2738 Almala street, captain of the lake launch Chicago.

Weimer declared that in his opinion the boat was built too high to carry passengers safely.

Gilbert Anderson, builder of the Favorite, was another witness.

"Originally she was to be a single decker, but plans were altered and a second deck decided upon by the owner before the hull was built," he asserted.

"It was not Mr. Anderson who decided to put on the second deck." His statement was corroborated by relatives of Mr. Anderson, who died in 1918.

J. S. Expert Says It Will Restore Confidence.

Completion of the licensing of aviators in the Chicago district will result in a return of public confidence in the safety of flying, Lieut. Robert H. Gart, government aviation inspector, said yesterday on his return from inspecting the wreckage of the fifth airplane to crash within ten days in the vicinity of Chicago. Frank McBrien of Syosset, the pilot, was seriously injured Tuesday when his ship fell near Elgin. Computer use of the parachute, however, is not recommended by Lieut. Gart. He recalled that the group of aviation experts which met to draw up the rules governing commercial flights refused to include the compulsory use of parachutes in their recommendations.

Cites Experts' Attitude.

The experts seemed to take the attitude that if passengers are required to don parachutes that the plane owner would never get any business," he continued. "In other words, they seemed to conclude that compulsory use would tend to give the impression that flying is hazardous and unsafe."

Lieut. Gart maintained that ships in the hands of duly accredited and licensed pilots are a safe mode of travel. It is the wildcat flyer, he said, taking off in an old and broken down or carelessly inspected plane, who is to blame for the majority of fatal crashes, he asserted.

"It is bad, after the wonderful work Lindbergh and others have done," he said, "that progress in the Chicago district should be halted by this series of accidents. When the licensing is completed I am sure the public's confidence will be regained and held."

Start Licensing Pilots.

Maj. George A. Quinlan, county superintendent of highways and temporary air director for Cook county, announced that all applicants for county flying licenses will be required to obtain federal licenses first. Two men were arrested yesterday accommodating applicants for licenses. The roundup of pilots is being aided by county highway police under orders from Sheriff Charles E. Graydon.

Robert James of Mr. Quinlan's office has been placed in active charge of the work. He announced that all wildcat flyers will be cleared from the roads by Aug. 15.

C. S. McBrien of Elgin, brother of the injured aviator, denied reports that the latter was an inexperienced pilot. McBrien said he talked to his brother after he regained consciousness and learned that the control stick stuck out of its socket.

SIX SEIZED IN BOOZE RAID ON RAIL STATION

Six men, five of them porters and porters at the Dearborn street station, were arrested yesterday, and seven barrels full of choice Canadian liquor confiscated by prohibition agents in a raid on what they termed a local distributing point for a gang of liquor smugglers operating between Detroit, Kossuth, Mich., and Chicago.

Warrants were obtained for five others in Chicago and additional arrests are expected in Detroit, Ray Timroth, 1817 North Dearborn, supervisor, stated in front of the station, where the automobile in which he was riding was found to contain five suitcases full of liquor.

Reports that attempts would be made to padlock the Pullman coaches in which the porters are alleged to have transported the liquor were denied yesterday by Alexander Jans, deputy prohibition administrator, here.

15 PLANES ENTERED IN COAST TO HAWAII $35,000 AIR DERBY

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Fifteen aviators, three of whom are expected to brave alone the perils of flying over the Pacific, tonight were entered in the great aerial derby for $35,000 in prizes from the mainland to Hawaii on Aug. 12.

Closing of the official entry books at midnight last night found an array of flyers competing for the money offered by James D. Dole, wealthy pineapple grower, for the first two to land on the islands after the 1,400 mile hop from San Francisco.

The men who expect to make the flight, unaccompanied by navigators, are Arthur C. Goebel of Santa Monica, Cal., flying a monoplane; Maj. Livingston G. Irving, Berkeley, Calif., also using a monoplane; and Frederick A. Giles, Detroit, flying a biplane.

Others who are to make the flight are Miss Mildred Doolan, school teacher of Flint, Mich., who will accompany John Angie Pedlar of Flint and W. R. Lawing, chief aeronaut and meteorologist of North Island, Cal., while Mrs. William P. Erwin, of Dallas expects to fly with her husband, Capt. Erwin.

22 ARRESTED IN THIRD GAMBLING RAID ON "SHIP"

Three times within the last month suspected gamblers in The Ship, a Cicero resort said to be under control of Al Brown, have been interrupted by raiders from the sheriff's office. Sergt. Richard Mackay of the County Highway police last night led a squad which arrested William Rose, the alleged keeper, and twenty-one men accused of gambling. The prisoners were taken to a Chicago patrol wagon to the Cicero police station where they gave bond for their appearance at a hearing this afternoon before the Morton Grove county highway court.

"It is bad, after the wonderful work Lindbergh and others have done," he said, "that progress in the Chicago district should be halted by this series of accidents. When the licensing is completed I am sure the public's confidence will be regained and held."

LONDON-INDIA FLYER FALLS IN DANUBE RIVER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Lucky attempt to make a record nonstop flight to India when Flight Lieutenant C. R. Carr and Flying Officer E. C. Dearth were forced to land today on the Danube river at Somerberg, near Lima. Both aviators escaped injury, although the machine was damaged.

The men who expect to make the flight, unaccompanied by navigators, are Arthur C. Goebel of Santa Monica, Cal., flying a monoplane; Maj. Livingston G. Irving, Berkeley, Calif., also using a monoplane; and Frederick A. Giles, Detroit, flying a biplane.

TAKERS OF STATE TESTS FOR BAR SET NEW MARK

Out of 513 Examined 323

Get Passing Grades.

A higher percentage of candidates taking the Illinois bar examinations were successful in the last tri-annual examination, July 19 and 20, than ever before.

The results were announced yesterday. Nearly sixty-three percent, or 323 of the 513 candidates, passed. The usual average is between 58 and 55 per cent; at times it has dropped to as low as 45.

Of the successful candidates, eleven were women. Fifty-five on the list are downtown residents. The rest live in the suburbs.

Among those who passed were Timothy D. Hurley Jr., son of the late Timothy D. Hurley, of the Cook county Superior court; Leonard B. Ettelson, an assistant in the office of his brother, Samuel Ettelson, corporation counsel; Allan Healy, son of former State's Attorney John J. Healy; John Russell Whitman, son of Robert Whitman, former president of the Chicago Bar association; and Tyrrell D. Krum, a Chicago newspaper man.

The successful candidate from Champaign and nearby towns are:

REOPEN MIAMI
MINE PARLEY,
DONAHEY ASKS

Columbus, O., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Gov. Donahey today asked John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, to meet him, and members of the coal mine operators of the central competitive field, to reconvene their conference on wage settlement which ended in a deadlock at Miami, Fla., last spring.

Simultaneously the governor asked Gov. Ed Jackson of Indiana, Len Small of Illinois and John S. Fisher of Pennsylvania to attend similar requests to Miller and Donahey.

Miller and Donahey viewed the renewed apprehension the situation in various sections of the Ohio coal fields, where there have been reported disturbances between union and nonunion miners, and, in some instances, between striking union miners and coal operators.

In the eastern part of the country, in the eastern coal field, and Athens county, in the Hocking valley field, were focal points of interest in discussion of the situation by the governor and Adj't Gen. Frank D. Henderson. The adjutant general told the governor that there is comparative quiet in all sectors with the exception of Tuscarawas county, where the situation was out of hand Monday, and was believed to be under control at present.

Only Four Illinois Mines Open.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 3.—(AP)—About 20 of the more than 235 producing coal mines are working under separate agreement between operators and miners, Harry Fishwick, president of the Illinois miners, said today.

None of these are worked to capacity, averaging 11.5 days, as compared to the usual average of two days.

Production has dropped from about 9,000,000 tons monthly to 250,000 tons, and only 2,500 of the state's 75,000 miners are employed in mining.

Amazing New Antiseptic
Actually Soothes as it Sterilizes!

JUST imagine an antiseptic so different from harsh, tissue-destroying remedies that it actually soothes as it sterilizes. Wherever it is applied it checks infection, stops pain and promotes rapid healing.

It is cool, mild, soothing and non-poisonous. Never smarts or burns. What a boon for mothers treating cuts, sores, wounds and bruises on tender little bodies!

ANTISEPTIC AND HEALING

OIL-OF-SALT is unique for burns and scalds. Relieves pain and promotes rapid healing with magic speed. ALSO IN: VALUABLE FOR SUNBURN. Gives immediate relief and prevents blistering. Soothes mosquito and insect bites. Obstinate cases of eczema, acne, barber's itch and impetigo yield to it. More soot is rejuvenated. Moreover, with its amazing combination of antiseptic and healing powers, it successfully combats infection and inflammation in the mouth, nose and throat. Checks pyorrhea, hardened soft tissue, etc. Valuable as a nasal spray or douche. Relieves sore throats of worst kind. Amazingly effective... and the most economical antiseptic ever offered.

YOUR DRUGGIST HAS IT. Get a bottle today and give it a trial. The handy household bottle is only 65c. Money refunded if you are not delighted.

The Iffers Are With Us

by SAMUEL G. BLYTHE

What will happen IF President Coolidge says he intends to run again?

What will happen IF President Coolidge says he does not intend to run again?

What will happen IF President Coolidge intends to run again but says nothing at all?

At the time that Mr. Blythe made his survey of the situation, these were some of the questions that were disturbing the peace in our best political circles and causing many potential presidents and presidential politicians to run around vaguely, uncertain what to do about 1928.

In the meantime, the only man who could answer them, apparently quite unconcerned at the dilemma of the Iffers, was saying nothing and letting politics take its course.

The Coeducation of Peter White

by Jesse Lynch Williams

The story of a college student too busy to study, a brilliant young professor too proud to teach, and also a pretty coed too completely feminine to be quite modern, who finds time both on and off the campus to learn a good deal from each of them, and incidentally teaches both of them a lesson.

The Indirect Method

by William Hazlett Upson

How to make a tractor attractive to an irascible old gentleman who vows he will never buy another Earthworm Tractor while he has breath in his body to say "No." Dozens of laughs and no mean lesson in salesmanship are packed into this story of a tractor sale that starts at the bottom of a well and ends in the county jail ... but with the prospect's name duly inscribed on the dotted line.

CUBS ROLL UP 12 TO 1 SCORE ON BRAVES

RICKARD FIXES
SEPT. 22 AS DATE
OF TITLE BOUT

Fight Is Set Back at Jack's Request.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.
Was Promoter George Gets out of his word was received last night from Tex Rickard who had returned to New York that Gene Tunney and Jim Driscoll will meet for the world's heavyweight championship on Soldiers' Field on Sept. 22. The fight was set back one week at the request of Dr. May, wife, Estelle Taylor, movie actress, is ill in Hollywood. Cal.

JACK DEMPSEY. The extra week is expected to give Dempsey more time to get in shape. It will permit him to do his road work, the doctors said, to be prepared for more strenuous and harder workouts when he comes east. Rickard has notified both fighters that they must be in Illinois three weeks before the contest.

Dempsey announced yesterday he would leave for Chicago Aug. 15. Mrs. Dempsey probably will not be able to accompany him.

Prize Pounds Reach $750,000.

Richard also announced in New York yesterday that the advance order for tickets have named $750,000. He will leave for Chicago on Saturday with assistants to handle the ticket orders. Rickard plans to return to New York on the following Wednesday to make final arrangements for the Jack Dolaney-Paulino fifteen round bout in the Yankees stadium one week from tonight.

The New York promoter sent word to Chicago that Pat Mulvey, builder of tracks for six day races, will be in charge of the construction of extra sets on Soldiers' Field. Mulvey will be on hand to look over the racing arrangements planned by George F. Donohue, superintendent of the south park system.

Walter George, secretary of the boxing commission, predicted yesterday that Promoter Getz's $200,000 bond will be approved by the state treasurer within ten days. As soon as the treasurer passes on the bond, Getz will apply for a permit to stage the fight on Sept. 22.

The management of the Morrison hotel announced that Dempsey had wired for the use of the bungalow on the roof of the hotel. It is not believed that Jack will use it for training quarters. It is likely he intends to rent it to his wife.

Lincoln Fields Invited Fighters.

A telegram signed by Col. Matt J. Wim and Sturtevant Peabody was sent to Rickard yesterday offering the use of Lincoln Fields to Tunney or Dempsey as training quarters. If either accepts the invitation, the place will be run over the Chicago and Elgin Railroad every day for the benefit of those who care to attend the workouts.

Members of the Roosevelt-Aurora Post of the American Legion sent an invitation to Tunney to train in Aurora and take advantage of the opportunities offered by Expedition park.

John Gibson, manager of Tunney, wired on way to Speculator, N. Y., to confer with the champion regarding a training camp in Illinois.

Northwestern Appoints

Hayford Ticket Manager

Maxwell F. Hayford, former Purple swimming star, yesterday was appointed ticket manager of Northwestern.

He assumed his new duties immediately, filling a vacancy left by the promotion of Edward R. Davison to a position on the Chicago board of the university last spring. Hayford was captain of the swimming team in 1921.

CHAMPION.

The sport of the ring is a tough one, but the proof of a fighter is not the number of times he writes for the press. Or appears on a Hollywood lot. There is more to the game than the money you take. And all sportsmen agree I am right; You don't prove your worth by the name which you make, But the number of times that you fight.

You may brag of your bouts and may boast of your skill, You may think as a boxer you're good; But if you don't respect every fare paying fan You don't love the game as you should; For your attitude unto the sport of the ring.

Isn't proven alone by your might—The proof of a boxer (page Jack Dempsey, please)

Is the number of times that you fight.

Let 'Em Wear 'Em.

Dear Harvey: In riding around I notice a great many shops announce "Ladies Ready to Wear Clothes." Well, if they want to "earn" all right, let them get ready for the shock. These same shops have been offering women's clothing on the installment plan with a lead of three strokes on the field as they go into the final round this morning.

Mrs. Mida, who had an 88 the first day, toured Oak Park courses in 39, 38, while Miss Mary Jones, of Olympia Fields, the defending champion, fell far off her first round game. Mrs. Jones remains in second place with 171, but she needed 89 shots to complete her second round.

Mrs. Mida Shoots Six Birdies.

That 89 by Mrs. Mida was three strokes under women's par, and might have been four if she had not hit a hole, the tenth. She was out in 39, as against a par 41, by virtue of three birdies and three putts on the second green. Starting home, she put her approach in a trap short of the green. Trying to flip it up on the green with a massive niblick, she wasted two shots, and then took a niblick and exploded it out. These traps at Oak Park cost shots. She added too putting.

BY HARLAND ROHM.

Mrs. Lee Mida, six strokes back in the first round of the Women's Western Golf association medal play championship, began her bid for the crown with her favorite form of golf—medalist. She was at Oak Park yesterday. Not only did she make all six strokes but, by virtue of her sixteenth course record in the Chicago district, has a lead of three strokes on the field as they go into the final round this morning.

Lead Poetry.

Out at Lincoln Fields or other tracks you frequently have seen a horse being led to the post by the red coated rider in the lead position. That is not the horse being ridden, it is not a boy or perhaps a bad actor. It means, of course, the chance of a horse running away before they are at the post. It costs the owner $10. The reason for the charge is that so many owners would want their horses led if there was no charge, just as a measure of precaution.

Popular Songs.

Dear Harvey: I know a stenographer who won't add a postscript to a letter unless the boss sings to her. "Sweet, add a line."

Osh Kosh.

Metzler Opens with Double.

The game opened with a double by Metzler, the only hit credited to him. Then the fifth inning, Hunnefeld sacrificed, but Clancy and Fall couldn't help, so the kid died on third.

Rothrock opened the Boston offense with a single, White shot a single, and then got a hit for the score.

It was the old story of the phantom punch and a failure to take the Boston seriously until too late, a quaint psychological condition which has caused Tommy Thomas to lose two of the five games the Red Sox have won from the Comiskey's this year.

Both clubs made six hits and each earned one run on two singles. But the difference came in an error by Peckinpah, a stolen base, and a single. Ruffing pitched a good game all the way, though he was wild and Tommy wasn't. Charley had three strikeouts, two by Ward, and Tommy had six, three of them by Bill Regan, who is cast in the cleanup spot for the partial contingent.

200 SIGN UP FOR TRIBUNE'S GOLF DRIVING CONTEST

Entry Lists Will Close
Saturday Noon.

Some joyful golfer will travel homeward Sunday night to meet his driver in one hundred and one-foot silver cup is the other, the symbol that he knew how to use that drivers, in the Tribune's third annual golf driving contest to be held at Soldiers' Field Sunday. At the same time some woman will go home with another silver cup emblematic of the fact that she was the best female golfer.

A third silver cup for the longest single ball may go to one of those or it may go to some one else (as it has in the past) who hit one superb drive and had the tough luck to put the others out of bounds. And some thirty odd other golfers will have medals testifying they were almost as good.

Entries Pass 300 Mark.

There's only two days left to enter this contest for entries close Saturday at noon and no entries will be accepted.

The entry list of men and women to the competition yesterday showed the entrants of these should finish high in the lists. These two are the Dawson brothers, George, who lost to George Venzel in the semi-finals of the national amateur championship at Belmont last year, and Johnny, whom this golf observer has seen reach the gross of 130 yards and with two strokes. George, who now is a member of the Blue Mound club of Milwaukee, won the medal for the single longest drive, a superb poke of 200 yards, last year.

Golf of the Wilson-Crest golf balls by the Wilson-Western company will make the competition interesting. It is to do something more than sign and send in the entry blank published here with and appear at Soldiers' Field Sunday with his pet driver. Of course any contestant may use any ball he chooses. It might be well to mention that spectators and contestants should enter Soldiers' field by the south entrance. The gate there will be locked to avoid any chance of any entering spectator being struck by a golf ball. There is plenty of parking space near the south entrance.

Published Entry Lists.

The list of entries for the early hours will be published Saturday morning and the entries who will show from noon on will be published Sunday morning. It is requested the contestants appear as nearly on time as possible. When forced to leave at the same time will not have a contest, he will be obliged to wait until the tap is clear. This does not apply to women, who will be given first chance to drive, no matter when they appear.

The tee is built, the course marked out and ready for the golfers now. To them the essential thing is to send in their entry now.

ENERGY RALLIES IN STRETCH TO BEAT OH SUSANNA

Kentucky Colt Reverses Result of Last Race.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The Kentucky sprinter Energy turned the tables on former Semper Canden's Oh Susanna at Lincoln Fields yesterday was a head in front when the finish came in the desperation race between Cooper Carlton handicaps at six furlongs.

About a week ago these gallant short distance racers clashed over the same track at the same distance. When that struggle ended Oh Susanna's nose was in front. Yesterday Oh Susanna picked up three pounds and Energy was in two and a half pounds lighter.

Energy sized the six furlongs in 1:11.2, which neared the track record and which was one of the gamest performances of the year by a Kentucky colt. Energy had to come from behind, had to pick out a dangerous path guided by jockey L. Pichon, and had to put the last ounce of his courage and running ability into the stretch battle to get the decision.

Dinner Dance Threatens.

On Susanna, the second choice in the betting, was a head behind Energy, jumping into the lead as the horses went up, and her backers settled back to see her stay in front all the way. Before they had gone half a mile Dinner Dance, fast but weak hearted, romped up alongside of her and in a few strides took the lead. Susanna was running on the outside, but was back in third position for a time and fourth for a while.

Heading into the stretch Oh Susanna took Dinner Dance into camp, then stepped into a length ahead. Dinner Dance showed his strides almost to the disengaged state, Energy came on the outside and passed him. He then took off after Oh Susanna. A half furlong out they were running inches apart; a few more strides and Energy now showed in front. He kept it in front until they reached the finish line. Energy paid $7.20 in the mutuel.

They were running close to record time the other events and when the greatly improved 3-year-old Mike Hall stepped home a length and a half in front of Breakfast the "Wheeler" was at a mile and a sixteenth, in 1:44, one name within a fraction of a second of the track mark.

J. Fred A Quite.

R. Russell, one of the youngest jockeys on the course, brought Mike Hall around and did a fine job of it when he came from far back to the head of the stretch to pull into the lead and win going away. J. Fred A. quite, who rides for E. K. Bryson, had a quiet tip and when he jumped into a two and tenth lead, he may have gone too far, for it looked like he might stick it out and get the verdict. Both Bay and Spanish Lay put the challenges on him, turning for home, and

Margaret James to Become Importer of Dogs for Her Friends

BY NANCY R.

Pretty Miss Margaret James, who, with her mother, Mrs. Ralph H. James, is spending the summer in England, has, I hear, a new hobby to which she is devoting much of her time. The hobby is pedigree, wire-haired terriers, and I'm told that she is bringing home an adorable puppy when she returns to Chicago in October. More than that, she has obtained much information on the subject of this particular kind of pet for several of Chicago friends who are also interested—she may arrive with a Remond to distribute in this part of the world.

Besides forwarding the histories of the dogs available on the English market, she is practical enough to send me also the exact cost of importing a puppy. Eighty-five dollars seems to be the reasonable total, which includes thirty-five dollars for the dog, ten more for the traveling basket, another ten for license and kennel permission, fifteen for steamer passage and fifteen for railroad fare in the two countries—I believe I have remembered correctly the various items on her list.

Miss James and Miss Margaret Enders have just returned to England from Caribbean, which has proved such a popular resting place for Chicago folk this summer, and the former is moving into the new house she has taken in South street, Thurles square. Miss James, who has been making a round of visits at English country places, will join her mother in London, and they will go together to Ascot.

The James' other daughter, a Frances, is wrapped up in her career as a dancer, and is with Anton Dolin's ballet at His Majesty's theater in White Birds. Col. James and the son of the family, Charles, are both spending the summer in these parts.

WEDDING

The marriage of Miss Ruth Hoffman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Hoffman, to Milton A. Romney, son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Romney of Salt Lake City, took place yesterday at the home of the bride's parents in Salt Lake City. The couple selected for a honeymoon through the Rockies and will not return until late fall.

Newspaper Man to Wed Prince's Daughter

New York, Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Alexander P. Lebedoff, understood to be the daughter of the late Prince Peter Kropotkin, Russian revolutionist, author, and scientist, who was banished from Russia under the old régime and subsequently was in the old guard of the communist government there, and Lorimer Hammond, a 24-year-old newspaperman, have obtained a marriage license at the bureau in the municipal building today.

Miss Lebedoff, who described herself as 40 years old, was born in London, where her father was in exile, but subsequently returned to Russia as the wife of Boris P. Lebedoff. She obtained a divorce from him in 1920.

Mr. Hammond spent some time in Russia in journalism there, and Lorimer Hammond, a 24-year-old newspaperman, has obtained a marriage license at the bureau in the municipal building today.

Miss Lebedoff, who described herself as 40 years old, was born in London, where her father was in exile, but subsequently returned to Russia as the wife of Boris P. Lebedoff. She obtained a divorce from him in 1920.

Mr. Hammond was born in New Haven, Conn. He is now on the foreign staff of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Model Normand Gaining Strength Against Illness

Saint Paul, Minn., Aug. 1.—Mabel Normand, screen actress, was reported to have gained strength today in her fight against the second serious illness she has suffered in six months. Miss Normand, who suffered from pneumonia last February, sent word today that she had only a bad cold and would be out in a few days. Attacks at the hospital, however, showed that there was a touch of pleurisy and that her condition was more serious than would be caused by an ordinary cold.

Delta Sigma Club Dance.

The Delta Sigma club of the University of Chicago is beginning its activities for the coming year with a dinner dance at the Beverly Hills Hotel tomorrow evening. Miss Gladys James, president of Miss Violet Olson, chairman of the program committee, will be hostesses.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

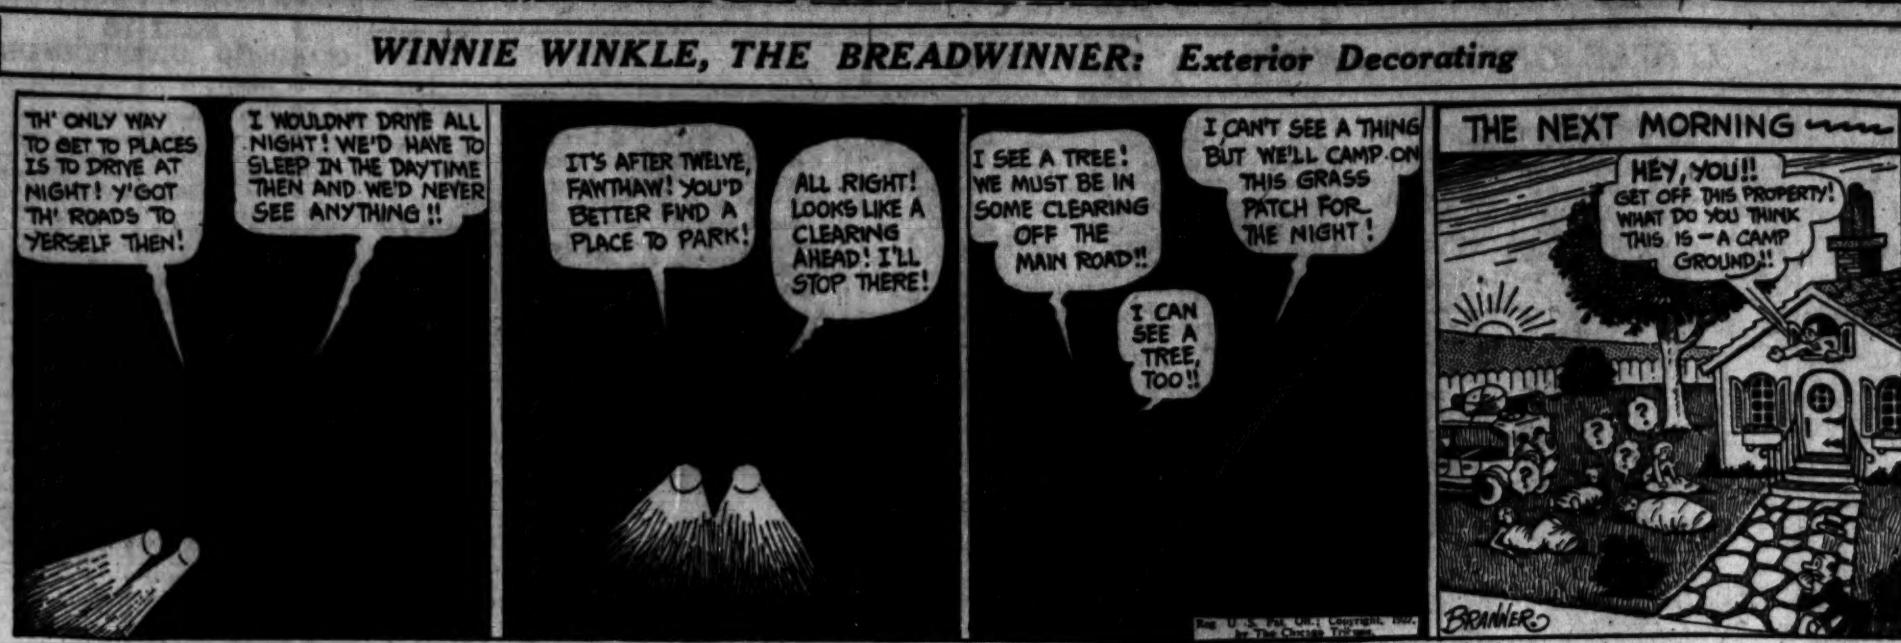

Imitation Brunswick Stew.

This is the season of the year when a huge pot of a thick mixture, halfway between stew and soup, is found to be delectable by people who like gravy in gravy. A list of the names of those potpies or that of the ones made through the centuries is rather entertaining, but if we confine our attention to things American the list is not long, and it is the Brunswick stew.

The meat in this stew was originally squirrel, but all the little imitations are as easily obtainable from our markets at this season. Green corn picked on the spot, used to another high light ingredient.

The following imitation—about enough for three people—was worked out with the idea that it might be helpful at this season, because it can be easily multiplied and the variations are few. Two to three ounces of fat salt pork, two good sized onions minced, one pound of potatoes sliced and cut fine, about two cups of raw corn cut from the ears, two pork chops, three cups or more of water, two tablespoons of flour, two teaspoons of salt, a few grains of black pepper, a little cayenne pepper.

Cut the onions fine and gently cook it in the heavy stew pan, being careful not to make it dark brown. But have the surface seared. The pork should be immaculate, and then its presence in the stew will be like bits of parboiled marrow. Mix the flour, salt, and other seasonings, and roll the fresh pork, which has been cut up in thin strips, in this seasoning, and then add it in the salt pork fat slowly, turning it on all sides. Push to one side, add the onions and stir them to the fat and the potatoes which have had boiling water poured over them, and in which they may stand five minutes. Add the water and the corn and the seasonings and stir until the whole thickens.

Chicago Friends Hear of Paris Wedding of Douglas Huntington

Of interest to the older generation in Chicago is the announcement received this week of the marriage of Douglas St. George Huntington, son of the late Maj. Henry A. Huntington of Chicago, to Mlle. Marie de la Londe, daughter of Comte Henry de la Londe of Versailles, France, which took place in June at the cathedral of St. Louis in Versailles. The bridegroom's father, Maj. Huntington, formerly resided at 42 East 16th street, in the days when that part of the city was the "gold coast" of the fashionable world. He was formerly literary editor of THE TAURUS, a member of the Chicago club, and a contemporary of Marshall Field, Potter Palmer, and John Crerar.

Mr. Huntington's bride, Frances, is wrapped up in her career as a dancer, and is with Anton Dolin's ballet at His Majesty's theater in White Birds. Col. James and the son of the family, Charles, are both spending the summer in these parts.

AUGUST BRIDE

YOU AND YOUR CHILDREN by Mrs. Gladys Huntington Lewis

Should a Mother Be Also a Human Being?

It's so easy to be swamped by being a mother. If your children are interesting to you as companions, if you have time to give them, if you have all the care of them, it's natural to be overwhelmed by it. It doesn't mean overcome by it—but completely taken up by it. It is such an absorbing occupation that it could eat up every minute of your time. If you'd let it. But you mustn't.

I learned my lesson long ago.

When my baby was born I moved and had my being in a world apart.

Not only was I enchanted with him, but I felt absolutely certain that if I left him nobody could possibly take care of him properly.

The first night I went to the theater I left him with his father. When I came back the baby had wakened up and cried so that his father had wheeled his bassinet into the living room and sat up all night. I lit a fire and he was playing the flute to the baby.

Afterward I realized the funniness of that spectacle—but at the time I vowed never to leave the baby again.

Well, I got over that. I came to realize that I was wiping the floor with myself and I didn't want to look out; I would be wholly a mother, and no matter what the age of your children you don't want to be that.

In the end you'll be a better mother for having your grown-up interests, your grown-up diversions. You'll be more able to keep yourself moving in touch with the world, and so be better able to fit your children for life and the world we live in. You'll be better able to understand what they have to tell you of it and what they encounter when they go out into it. In other words, it will help you to speak their language.

To be sure, if you're a live intelligent woman you'll want the life and color of the world around you sometimes you'll lose your perspective, and then the managing that you have to do to set out pleasure doesn't do much worth while. But it is. So when you weaken, use as a spur the fact that every other time you've sailed forth you've come back safe of it.

Mrs. James W. Corrigan, who arrived yesterday on the Majestic, is at the Ritz-Carlton.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

In the Dark.

A few Sundays ago while at a downtown show I happened to drop my glove. Not wishing to lose them, I started looking for them in the dark. Seeing something black on the side of me and thinking it was my glove I reached down and pulled something, and to my great horror, it was a man's foot.

I need not say that as soon as I found those gloves I went out without seeing the pictures.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Herbert and his new little playmate seemed to be getting along so nicely that his mother remarked upon it thankfully, and after the small boy went home she said, "Well, Herbert, you're going to be a good time together, didn't you?"

"Well, yes," admitted Herbert grudgingly. "He's kinda dumb, but I think I can train him!" H. M. S.

Elmer Praises Radio Version of Rubinstein

Famous Short Stories by Air Also Interest Him.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

Rubinstein's marvelous colorful, impressive "Kamcnol-Ostrow," with organ, piano, bells, and orchestra, played by the Drake Concert ensemble at 7:30, was the outstanding feature of last night's radio entertainment.

Ordinarily I am skeptical as to dramatic plays making either a general appeal or being suitable for classification as radio entertainment, but I am sure that the dramatization of famous short stories, now featuring weekly under the title "Short Tales," from New York, through KFWF, 7 to 10, is successful and is winning widespread interest.

The Crusaders male quartet program from KWF, Congress studio, 7:30 to 8, was first-rate.

A fortunate turn of the dials found Miss Mary Sherman, soprano, in recital at WHT, 8 to 9:40. As from WEBA, so from WHT; this artist, finished and polished in technique and smooth of voice, maintains always a high standard.

An unusual event was the duo recital by Marie and Eddie, well known harpists. Rose Vitale, violinist, violinist, WMAG, 8 to 9:45. From a radio viewpoint, this was a violin recital with harp accompaniment. Miss Sherman, possessing a tone that was both delicate and vigorous, was well equipped to play her part. Miss Eddie, who created a harpistic background illusion with chord arpeggios, and other characteristic harp embellishments that were fascinating.

I did not find anything in the several New York programs that was comparable in interest or quality with those given in Chicago.

The "Survey" by Harry Bond, tenor, WMAG, 8:30 to 9, was noticeable for its presentation of new numbers. Mr. Bond's voice, though pleasing, is not exceptional.

Emil Eck and his Magic Flute (apologies to Mozart), WGN, 10:45 to 11, in a French program, was excellent. These selections were reminiscent of Debussy's "The Afternoon of a Faun." The recital included two movements from a suite by Widor and closed the evening admirably for concert music lovers.

WOMAN ADMITS HUSBAND KILLED RESTAURATEUR

The confession of Mrs. Ethel Sutton, 21, old maid, cleared up the mysterious murder of Gus Stasenous, restaurant proprietor of Hammond, Ind., whose body was found last Easter morning in the Calumet City stockyards.

Mrs. Sutton told police that her husband, Sam Stasenous, 37, killed Stasenous with a monkey wrench after she had driven him to her room. She said that after her husband had beaten Stasenous she placed the dying man in her automobile and started for a hospital but became frightened and instead drove to the stockyards and dumped the body there.

When Stasenous was slain he carried about $1,500 in his pockets, his friends said. His pockets were empty when his body was found. Sutton is being sought in Texas.

YOUNG WIFE SUES RICH HUSBAND, 61; ALLEGES CRUELTY

Mrs. Winona Hansell, youthful wife of Ernest Hamm, 61, the old head of the Ray Art company, yesterday filed her second separate maintenance suit against her husband, charging cruelty. The first suit filed a year ago was dismissed when her husband promised to treat her better, she stated.

Two spinster daughters of her husband, Mrs. Anna and Mrs. Ruth, helped to make her life miserable, Mrs. Hansell charged. Before their marriage, Hansell promised that his daughters would not live with them, she said, but they did, and they were fault finding and nagging, the wife charged.

Hansell is worth $800,000, according to the bill, and has an income of $100,000 a year.

Henry J. Reimers, I. A. C. Manager, Taken by Death

Henry J. Reimers, Illinois Athletic club manager since 1916, died yesterday at his home, 272 William street, River Forest, after a two weeks illness. He was 56 years old.

He was born in Milwaukee twelve years ago. He is survived by his widow and a son, 8 years old. Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. in the residence. Burial will be in Forest Home cemetery.

BOR RECENT DEALER OF $2,700.

Eward Holman, 2800 North Clark avenue, was robbed of jewelry worth $2,700 by two men who forced their way into his estate office yesterday. He was locked in a rear room before the bandits departed.

Arabian Nights Music on W-G-N This Evening

NOTHER of those splendid summer programs by Henry Selinger's novelty orchestra is to be the feature of the Arabian Nights' entertainment tonight from the Drake hotel, 10:30 p.m. and 10 o'clock. A special feature of the program will be fifteen minutes of the latest dance tunes, between 9:45 and 10, in which the concert orchestra becomes a jazz band. The arrangements of the classical offerings tonight are by Alfred G. Watheal, and the interludes of the program will be furnished by Bryce Talbot, harpist.

Harry Reiss' Eskimos, popular banjo jazz band, will present their weekly program tonight from W-G-N between 8 and 9. This sixty minutes of song and syncopation is brought by wire from New York. In addition to a plentiful supply of jazz melodies, there will be banjo solos by Harry Reiss, and songs by members of the orchestra.

A feature of W-G-N's nightly summary of the New York and Chicago music and band situation, broadcast between 6:01 and 6:10 o'clock, will be a special digest of "The Tribune Survey" for August. "The Survey" is a new Tribune public service designed to inform business conditions and one of the August issue's features, to be covered on the air, is the interpretation of the improving farm situation and its probable effect on fall business.

"The Origin and History of Cosmetics" will be discussed by Edith Dieckrich this morning during the home management period, 11:30 to 11:55. Miss Dieckrich, giving a friendly talk on cosmetics, will be joined by Walter Murray, decorative adviser for O. W. Richardson & Co., also will be read during this period. It deals with "Appropriate Furniture for Space Saving Homes."
